

Disability among Adults with Diabetes

Adults with diabetes are more likely to report having a physical or mental disability than adults without diabetes. In 2010, 19.6% of adult Virginians reported a physical, mental, or emotional disability.

- In 2010, 38.4% of adults with diabetes reported having a disability, compared to 17.8% of adults without diabetes.
- Adults with diabetes are more than two times as likely to report a disability as adults without diabetes.

Data notes: Percents are weighted based on household and demographic characteristics. The BRFSS question asked to assess disability is: "Are you limited in any way in any activities because of physical, mental, or emotional problems?"
